Crossties are an area where the horses can be secured for Veterinary visits for shots, treatments and exams, and Farrier visits for shoeing, as well as everyday brushing, tacking up, bathing, clipping, etc.

We currently are using the main aisle in the barn for the farrier and the Veterinarian. This is not an ideal situation during any client session day. Adding two of these cross ties under the existing shed roof on the back of the barn will allow those duties to continue without disrupting regular client sessions.

Description of Project

When the weather is nice, our therapists and riding instructors take advantage of the outdoor ring for therapeutic riding lessons as well as occupational, physical, and speech therapy utilizing hippotherapy (equine movement) as a treatment tool. We would like to have a gazebo beside the ring for the client's caregiver to sit and watch their session.

This project would provide shelter from the sun and the elements. It would also be a quiet place to have a private mental health session as well as a place for our Veterans to gather for a meeting. It would also serve as a meeting place for any fundraising events at the farm.
